

The various use cases are included in the below use case diagram. The only actor in the diagram is the end user who is creating and editing the events in their calendar. The user is able to create an account through its respective use case, and all other use cases extend or use from this initial use case.

